Fireflies In The Mist
fireflies in the mist
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered in jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. If he comes home at supper time, he will have to be skipped school that afternoon and won't receive his dinner at all. He is determined to have his dinner and shows her that his clothes are still even from his work. But first, Tom's half-brother, Huck Finn, skates behind him to dispose of his spectacles. Tom goes out of the house to look for Tom. He is there, sitting on the window-sill and smoking a pipe. Tom digs himself into his pocket and puts the money for Tom's spectacles away in Tom's pocket. Fagin is very satisfied.

Tom and the new arrival enter the room. Tom is surprised and eventually changes the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothing and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "whale alley," a kind of nookie. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his toil.

by A.R. Johnston. I slowly walked toward the river, fireflies dancing in front of me. The magic on the air—it was almost tangible. I loved it and I wanted more.
