Grounded Authority The Algonquins Of Barriere Lake Against The State
grounded authority the algonquins of barriere lake against the state
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wryly on Tom's naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He has been to school that afternoon and has been looking forward to having his fish dinner in peace. But to his dismay, Aunt Polly announces that he will not be skipped school that afternoon and must remain at home to help with the housework. Tom's spirits are dampened, and he wonders if his mother is still alive and well. Tom's half-brother, Sid, is also at home, and Tom sees that Sid is slouching and listless. Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house in disguise, planning to catch a wherry with Sid. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and Sid encounter a group of boys who are playing a game of marbles and eventually chase the cronies all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Juniper by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of muffler. Juniper agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He is already well dressed, and Aunt Polly wonders what he has planned for his evening. She asks him where he’s been, and Tom tells her about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that if he skips school again, he’ll be sent to the school for boys to board and be whipped every day. Tom is visibly worried, but Aunt Polly is satisfied.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of produce. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
Across North America, Indigenous acts of resistance have in recent years opposed the removal of federal protections for forests and waterways in Indigenous lands, halted the expansion of tar sands extraction and the pipeline construction at Standing Rock, and demanded justice for murdered and missing Indigenous women.

In the Haida and Taku River decisions in 2004, and the Mikisew Cree decision in 2005, the Supreme Court of Canada (SCC) held that the Crown has a duty to consult and, where appropriate, accommodate when the Crown contemplates conduct that might adversely impact potential or established Aboriginal or Treaty rights.
